Time is running out to ask your representatives to co-sponsor the Fair and Open Competition Act (H.R. 1552/S. 622), introduced by Rep. Dennis Ross (R-Fla.) and Sen Jeff Flake (R-Ariz.)

This critical legislation protects federal and federally assisted construction contracts from government-mandated project labor agreements (PLAs).

ABC / MSTI Craft Training

October marks Careers in Construction Month, an important time to recognize the investments made each year to attract and train the construction workers of the future.

There has never been greater opportunity for those seeking a rewarding path in a skilled trade, where one can enter the workforce right away as an apprentice, get paid to learn career skills on the job, and even work his or her way up to owning a business. Construction is an in-demand career with plenty of opportunity for people from all walks of life. It provides an opportunity for a well-paying career, not just a job—one that can't be offshored.

It is also among the few industries where workers can join as an apprentice or trainee and be paid to further their career through earn-and-learn programs, all without accruing massive student loan debt. Skilled trades are a viable alternative to college for young students. And, a 2015 survey found construction professionals are the happiest employees in the workforce.

At ABC Texas Gulf Coast, we are working hard to address the worker shortage and curb the skills gap through more than 800 apprenticeship, craft training and safety training programs set up in 1,400 locations across the country. We are developing the construction workforce of the future—one that is diverse and inclusive, and where workers are presented with limitless opportunities.

The culmination of this training is represented at the annual ABC National Craft Championships, where young men and women participate in 15 competitions, representing 13 crafts.

Opportunity lies before us to expand access to satisfying, well-paying careers in construction for women, minorities, veterans, students, non-graduates and people seeking new careers, re-entry to the workforce or a second chance. We look forward to developing the next generation of safe, skilled and productive workers we need to build America.
